

From the Rails to the Ring

Two of boxing's most decorated superstars, "The Golden Boy" Oscar de la Hoya and "Pretty Boy" Floyd Mayweather, will square off May 5 in one of the biggest sporting events of the decade. The fight will be held at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas and is expected to break records for pay-per-view subscriptions and gate ticket sales.

The two champions and their entourages recently embarked on the first leg of an 11-city media tour, riding Amtrak through New York City, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., to attend press conferences and build hype for the once-in-a-lifetime event.

It's a Sign

Granted, you may not have much use for a tank-crossing sign in your garage, but it certainly will get the neighbors talking. Roundabout Signs offers authentic metal signs from the foreign countries in which they are posted. Ranging from $125 to $155, the hieroglyphic guideposts—which include Australia's kangaroo crossing and a Dutch water-hazard warning—are luring famous fans like car enthusiasts Jay Leno and Ralph Lauren. Amtrak riders, though, may be partial to this train-themed version from Germany. For purchase and information, call 888-527-1704 or visit roundaboutsins.com.

Etch Marks the Spot

You love your iPod, notebook computer and BlackBerry. And so do all of your friends, who have the same "personal" devices. How do you avoid mix-ups or being labeled an electronic copycat? Personalize your property by having it laser etched.

Adafruit Industries offers laser etching on laptop computers, MP3 players, cell phones, cameras or any other gadget you can think of. Just take your device and artwork to Adafruit's New York City office and you'll be the one to press the Go button on the machine.

Have your item etched with your name and "return to" information or a "Do not touch or you will be hurt" warning. Or give your gadget some flair with original artwork. Laser etching is great for businesses looking to keep tabs on their professional property.

Prices range from $30 for small devices like iPods and cell phones to $100 for laptop computers. Bulk and business rates are offered. E-mail laser@adafruit.com with questions or to make an appointment. Visit adafruit.com/laser for more pictures of sample work.
